

Customer Specific Requirements applicability

April 2024

To All Suppliers and Certification Bodies:

Following the creation of Stellantis and the first communique announcing the start of organization and processes convergence, please note that the convergence process is in progress and will lead to the publication of the first Stellantis CSRs in early 2025.

Until then, the CSRs currently published on the IATF website remain applicable and shall be used during IATF audits, based on the legacy programs; in other words, products contracted to xPSA will be subject to xPSA CSRs and the same will happen for xFCA and xFCA US LLC.

For new common projects, Stellantis provides its quality requirements through the document Quality Requirements for Suppliers (QRS) which is available to the certified organization and contains the already harmonized processes and can be showed by the certified organization.

Anyway, we recommend to audit Stellantis-entitled projects without taking into consideration the published legacy CSRs until the new Stellantis CSRs will be available in the IATF website.

In case of doubts, auditors can be put in contact with the respective SQE by the organization.

Thank you for your continuing support of IATF16949.
